IMPRISONMENT

The defendant is committed to the custody of the United States Bureau of Prisons to be imprisoned for a total term of 21 months.

The Court recommends that Immigration and Customs Enforcement begin removal proceedings during service of sentence.

The Court incorporates its Memorandum Opinion and Order in United States v. Matancillas-Reyes, CR 10-0933 (D.N.M.), filed August 31, 2010 (Doc. 29). Matancillas-Reves` offense level is 20 and his criminal history category is I, establishing a guideline imprisonment range of 33 to 41 months. The Court has carefully considered the guidelines and has considered other sentencing goals. Specifically, the Court has considered the guideline sentencing range established for the applicable category of offense committed by the applicable category of defendant. After careful consideration of the factors set forth in 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a), the Court finds that the punishment set forth in the guidelines is not appropriate for this offense. The Court has considered the kinds of sentences and ranges the guidelines establish, and the Court believes that the advisory guideline sentence is too high in this case. The Court is concerned about the 16-level enhancement Matancillas-Reves faces for a twenty-year-old drug-trafficking offense. The offense is old, and it does not appear that drugs are now a problem for Matancillas-Reyes, as they may have been when he was twenty-three years old. The Court thinks that a sentence that is more in the nature of a 12-level enhancement, rather than the 16-level enhancement, more appropriately reflects the seriousness of the conviction. A sentence more consistent with an offense level of 16 and a criminal history category of I establishes a guideline imprisonment range of 21 to 27 months, and the Court believes that a sentence of 21 months is appropriate. The sentence reflects the seriousness of Matancillas-Reves` offense, promotes respect for the law, and provides a just punishment. It is long enough to provide adequate deterrence. The sentence also protects the public and otherwise fully reflects each of the factors set forth in 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a). While the Court's task, as a district court, is not to arrive at a reasonable sentence -- it is to come up with one that reflects the factors in 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a), see United States v. Conlan, 500 F.3d 1167, 1169 (10th Cir. 2007) ("[A] district court s job is not to impose a reasonable sentence. Rather, a district court's mandate is to impose a sentence sufficient, but not greater than necessary, to comply with the purposes of section 3553(a)(2).")(citation omitted) -- this sentence is more reasonable than one within the guideline range. Finally, the Court believes a sentence of 21 months is sufficient without being greater than necessary to comply with the purposes of punishment set forth in the Sentencing Reform Act.

	The court makes these recommendations to the Bureau of Prisons:
	The defendant is remanded to the custody of the United States Marshal.  The defendant must surrender to the United States Marshal for this district:  at on  as notified by the United States Marshal.  The defendant must surrender for service of sentence at the institution design before 2 p.m. on  as notified by the United States Marshal  as notified by the Probation or Pretrial Service Office.	nated by the Bureau of Prisons:
